

Stablecoin market cap tops $240B (USDT ~67%, USDC ~27%) as the GENIUS Act's July 18 rulemaking deadline passed without final rules from regulators.

STABLECOIN NEWS

GENIUS Act rulemaking deadline missed

Six federal agencies missed the July 18 statutory deadline to finalize GENIUS Act stablecoin rules; issuers still await final capital and charter requirements.

CoinDesk / Yahoo Finance

Tether launches USAT for US compliance

Tether is rolling out USAT, a new US-domiciled stablecoin built for GENIUS Act compliance, while pursuing a foreign-issuer path for USDT itself.

Industry reporting

Stablecoin market cap passes $240B

Outstanding stablecoin supply now exceeds $240 billion, with Tether's USDT holding roughly 67% share and Circle's USDC around 27%.

Market data aggregators

Fidelity and Samsung push mainstream adoption

Fidelity Digital Assets announced its first stablecoin, FIDD, on Ethereum, while Samsung said it will add native stablecoin support to Samsung Wallet.

crypto.news

HACKING & SECURITY INCIDENTS

AFX bridge exploit drains $24M on Arbitrum

Attackers compromised five validator keys to hit quorum on an AFX-powered bridge, draining $24.15M in USDC and converting it to ETH (July 22).

Blockaid / CryptoRank

Triple-A hot wallets drained of $9.7M

Crypto payments firm Triple-A had hot wallets across TRON, Ethereum, TON and Solana drained of roughly $9.7M in stablecoins and liquid assets (July 24-25).

CryptoTimes / Coinpedia

Lien Finance loses $542K in bond-pricing exploit

Attackers manipulated bond pricing in Lien Finance's OTC pools on Ethereum to drain USDC liquidity on July 24.

CryptoTimes

"Hackers' Day" totals $35.5M across 3 exploits

On July 23, three separate DeFi exploits totaled $35.55M in losses, pushing the month's cumulative hack losses toward $100M.

Lookonchain / CryptoTimes