

Six federal agencies must finalize GENIUS Act stablecoin rules by July 18; stablecoin market cap posted its biggest monthly drop in nearly four years in June even as transaction volume hit a record $1.79T.

STABLECOIN NEWS

GENIUS Act rules due July 18

Six federal agencies are finalizing stablecoin rules under the GENIUS Act; payment platforms like Stripe and Block must now charter a stablecoin bank or exit the market.

Angel Investors Network

Circle wins OCC trust bank charter

Circle received an OCC charter on July 10, letting it manage USDC reserves directly; shares surged as competition with Tether intensifies.

CNBC

Stablecoin market cap posts biggest drop in 4 years

Total stablecoin market cap fell $7.7B in June, led by USDT and USDC declines, even as adjusted transaction volume hit a record $1.79T, up 63% month over month.

CoinDesk

Ripple secures full MiCA authorization

Luxembourg's CSSF granted Ripple full MiCA CASP authorization on July 6, enabling regulated stablecoin services across all 30 EEA countries.

Company announcement

HACKING & SECURITY INCIDENTS

Aptos flaw could have exposed $70B

White-hat firm Hexens found a critical Aptos flaw with a near-90% attack success rate that could have hit stablecoins and cross-chain bridges; a validator patch shipped before public disclosure, so no funds were lost.

CoinDesk

'Ill Bloom' exploit drains $5M+ from wallets

Attackers exploited a vulnerability dubbed 'Ill Bloom' to drain more than $5 million from cryptocurrency wallets in recent days.

The Hacker News

H1 2026 hack losses top $950M

Crypto platforms suffered 207 publicly reported attacks in H1 2026 totaling roughly $955M-$972M in losses, with North Korea-linked hackers responsible for about 66% of stolen funds.

Finbold / Chainalysis

Humanity Protocol breach traced to malware

June's Humanity Protocol hack, which cost over $30M, stemmed from private keys backed up on a malware-infected developer machine.

Halborn